Mainstream systems, programs, or services are those that:

• Typically serve a wide group of people (e.g., everyone below an income threshold)

• Don’t exist to specifically serve people experiencing homelessness

• Can create housing stability when people experiencing homelessness can access and use their resources

Our Vision: Housing Stability for All Minnesotans

Stable housing results in better educational outcomes for our children, a stronger workforce now and in the future, increased public safety, better health, reduced health care costs, and reduced disparities among communities.

A New Plan – A New Partnership
Prevent homelessness whenever possible, and otherwise making it rare, brief, and non-recurring.
Foundational Service Practices

A set of guiding principles designed to improve access to resources that can help prevent or end homelessness for families and individuals.
Foundational Service Practices: Why were they developed?

• People experiencing homelessness are often unable to access and use mainstream programs to the same extent as people who are more stably housed.

• While all low-income populations face barriers to applying for, retaining, and using the services provided by mainstream programs, these barriers are compounded by the inherent conditions of homelessness, such as transience, instability, and a lack of basic resources.

• The underlying structure and operations of mainstream programs are often not conducive to ensuring that the special needs of homeless people are met.
• Informed by interviews with key partners from around the state

• Incorporated national research, current federal and state guidelines, and program subject matter expertise
“What’s hard for people who are housed is impossible for people who are homeless.”
Foundation Service Practice #1

Know the housing status of the people you are serving.

• Ask the question
• Collect and store data
• Develop response protocol
Active reach out to people experiencing homelessness.

- Simple, easy and clear instructions
- Connect with homeless services staff
- Go to where people already are
• At application/re-application/to receive services or benefits/to ask questions

• Drop-in hours

• Services are not cut off or dropped simply due to missed appointments

Limit requirements for in-person appointments at a particular location or office.
Foundation Service Practice #4

- Data sharing between agencies
- Hands-on application assistance
- Extra response time or other lenience if needed
- Funds to help with getting documents
- Free storage (DB101/HB101)

Assist with the process of gathering required verifications or documentation.
My Vault

If you are looking for a new place to live, the Vault is a safe place to build a plan. Your HB101 Plan can help you decide on your needs and wants, review your money and budget, and present yourself in a positive way. Your HB101 Plan won’t find you a place, but it will help you figure out what to look for and how to pay for it.

Foundation Service Practice #5

• Do not require a personal mailing address or phone number

• Allow recipients a choice in how they want to receive information

• Allow for a 3rd-party contact person or authorized representative

Allow for multiple methods to communicate about benefits and services.
1. Know the housing status of the people you are serving
2. Actively reach out to people experiencing homelessness
3. Limit requirements for in-person appointments at a particular location or office
4. Assist with the process of gathering required verifications or documentation
5. Allow for multiple methods to communicate about benefits and services
Results for Children and Youth initiative

• Multi-agency results-based initiative within Minnesota state government

• Vision: Ensure all Minnesota youth thrive and are prepared to contribute to the World’s Best Workforce.

• Context: Minnesota ranks first in the nation for overall child well-being, but near the bottom for children of color and American Indian children.

• Mission: Eliminate barriers and create opportunity so that all children experience safe, stable, and nurturing environments and relationships – at home, at school, and in the community – and:

  • All children are ready for school

  • All children succeed from elementary school to high school:

  • Post-secondary education is affordable, accessible, and useful

  • These outcomes are universal, regardless of cultural, economic, and geographic backgrounds

Leveraging mainstream systems is a critical Federal strategy to prevent and end homelessness, including:

- Using mainstream systems as direct support for people facing homelessness
- Using mainstream systems to bolster or finance homelessness programs

USICH’s Enlisting Mainstream Resources and Programs to End Homelessness references specific Federal guidance across numerous programs.

In many cases, Federal guidance indicates what is possible, but implementation is at local discretion.
